Policy on Unit and Family Readiness

Family readiness is a key foundation on which the squadron is built. Our ability to accomplish the mission is jeopardized if our foundation is not solid. The Warlords are a family and we will take care of our own in order to ensure our foundation is strong.

I understand the impact our demanding profession has on our families, and I am committed to providing them with the very best support and guidance through the effective use of our Command Team, MCCS and the Unit Family Readiness Program (UFRP).

The Command Team and Uniformed Readiness Coordinator will be responsible for:

- The organization and support of the Unit Family Readiness Program.
- The facilitation of family readiness activities and life skills training.
- Actively promoting family readiness through education, events, and activities.
- Providing Marine families access to the tools needed to achieve and maintain their personal family readiness.
- Ensure open, accessible communications between family members, Marines, Sailors and the family readiness team.

Our Uniformed Readiness Coordinator is SSgt Chelsey Suits, and she can be reached at 228-9744 or cell phone at (386)-882-1376.
